

SILVER AT 93.

These are dark days for our battle born State. If matters continue much longer as at present there will not be as of old even a "silver lining to the cloud" which caught on to our cliffs and now shadows our valleys and homes. If quill driving and appeals to what remains of American national sentiment could have accomplished anything they surely would have done it in this case. The fact is, that since the reign of diplomacy among nations that are left at liberty to cultivate "the arts of peace," and one of the arts of peace is to make the most of what is in your own enclosure, which practically means to diminish that which belongs to our neighbors. Our statesmen, even if able, are in no position to render such service to the Republic as (for instance) a Bismarck to Germany or even a citizen of Great Britain exalted to the position of Premier to that Empire—we are not sufficiently provincial. We are not so smart, (i. e.) Uncle Sam is not so smart as we think he is; the pictures of him indicate that fact; he is a typical New Englander but not a North American. If left alone he can manage his case of the fishery dispute as between himself and the Bluesnoses but he don't know how to hold silver at par, and what is more does not care to. His provincialism never has taken in a business proposition covering the whole estate of the nation. Concerning a question of conscience he is capable of much better things.

The result is that our products are kicked about the world and London makes more on Nevada silver than does the producer of the precious metal. Europe is the bear on the street as to anything American, especially ultra-montane American. The Monroe doctrine is a bow string to the throat of our progress. If we had developed the doctrine of absorption we would not be in this pass. If we had accepted Santo Domingo and taken Cuba when we could as well as not, we would not be without resource, and above all, if our government were more thoroughly grounded in the noble ambition to conserve above everything else American interests we would not be at the mercy of a riag of shyllocks over the sea.

The following, which we translate from a Paris paper, will be appreciated by leading San Francisco journalists, such as Mike de Young, Mr. Hitch, Mr. Flickering, Parson Bartlett, Mr. Bierce, Paddy Murphy, Mr. Heister and Roscoe Jackson. In a cafe—Mr. Bennett, editor of the great journal, the Herald of New York, and M. Rochefort of La Lanterne, a newspaper in Paris. M. Rochefort: "That is a great and onerous responsibility you have on your palms, Mr. Bennett, the conduction of so great a leading newspaper." Mr. Bennett: "It bothers me worth a cent not." M. Rochefort: "Ah, I comprehend; you have a manager." Mr. Bennett: "Yes, but he doesn't run the machine." M. Rochefort: "May I ask then who bosses the job?" Mr. Bennett: "Why the foreman of the composing room, of course." M. Rochefort: "Ah, mon ami, Monsieur Bennett, let us shake—for the absinthe, I am a journalist myself."

—A San Francisco exchange has the following:
Wm. M. Stewart has let a contract to put a statue of Columbus (C. Powning) on his observatory in Carson, Nevada. Mr. Stewart is very fond of discoverers and encourages explorers to the extent of his means. In truth he is a sort of James Lick.

—S. P. Rounds, U. S. Printer, tendered his resignation to the President Thursday. It is understood that this was done at the request of the President, who, it is said, desires to fill the place before the adjournment of Congress. Mr. Rounds is credited with having said that Rodgers, of Buffalo, will be appointed to succeed him.

—A man named Peter McCoy was found dead in the waiting room at Reed's station, on the N. P. C. R. R. on the morning of the 1st.
